III. RESULTS OF INVESTIGATION

At Albuquerque, New Mexico

b7c/10 [REDACTED] University of New Mexico, reflect that appointee entered the University of New Mexico February 5, 1948 as a transfer from the State Teachers College of Indiana, Pennsylvania. He enrolled in the School of Letters, Arts and Sciences, majoring in philosophy and engineering. Appointee graduated with honors June 4, 1951 receiving a degree.

The records reflect appointee attended Indiana State Teachers College at Indiana, Pennsylvania during 1947 and the first semester of 1947-48. The records reflect he was born January 29, 1927 and his place of birth was not shown. His parent is P. R. ABBEY of Home, Pennsylvania. The records reflect appointee attended the Indiana High School at Indiana, Pennsylvania. The records also reflect that appointee is a veteran, having formerly been in the Army Infantry Service. He entered the service June 22, 1945 as an enlisted man.

The March 14, 1951 issue of the "New Mexico Daily Lobo", a publication at the University of New Mexico, reflects a letter to the editor which is as follows:

"In this day of the cold war, which every day shows signs of becoming warmer, the individual who finds himself opposed to war is apt to feel very much out of step with his fellow citizens. As an isolated individual he feels desperately inadequate either to check the tide or to make significant contribution which might serve to remove the occasion of wars. He feels, nevertheless, the essential wrongness of war and is searching for an alternative.

"On the UNM campus such a group—it includes both students and faculty— has formed to discuss the implications and possibilities of resistance to war. This group has no political or religious affiliations. Although not desiring to create an organization, this group feels the need of informal association. Persons interested in associating with us may get in touch with one of the undersigned."

There were sixteen names signed to this letter among whom was appointee.

[REDACTED] advised that ABBEY was unknown to him personally. He stated, however, that he was acquainted with the fact that he was a student at the University of New Mexico for two or three years prior to the past academic year. He stated the records of his office reflect that appointee resided in the dormitories located on Kirtland Air Force Base. He stated there was no information in the files of his office which reflects adversely on his loyalty to the United States.

[REDACTED] advised that he was acquainted with the fact that appointee was the editor of a literary publication on the campus named "The Thunderbird." He informed that in the spring of 1951 this publication came out with an obnoxious quotation on the front of it which had implications against religion and government. He advised that he recalled the incident and knew that there was an investigation made of it by the head of the Student Affairs Committee on the campus. He stated that it was his impression that the outcome of this investigation seemed to indicate that appointee was a highly intellectual individual who was rather shy and who desired to get his name before the students and create a sensation. [REDACTED] stated that as he recalled the outcome it appeared that it was a prank on the part of appointee which raised quite a commotion. [REDACTED] stated that he did not believe there was any motive behind the doing of this thing and that he himself had not associated appointee with any of the Communistic element on the campus at that time.

[REDACTED] advised that the records of his office concerning appointee while he was at the University of New Mexico and also concerning his residence in the student house building on Kirtland Air Force Base, contained no information reflecting adversely on his loyalty to the United States. [REDACTED] advised that he had no information concerning the formation of a World Peace Group in which appointee was interested. He stated several groups have mentioned formation of peace groups on the campus but he does not associate appointee with any of them.

[REDACTED] advised that she recalls appointee as a student at the University of New Mexico during the period 1948 to 1951. [REDACTED] advised that there was [redacted] stated that as a student appointee showed evidence of being a potential writer. He mentioned that some publishing company was considering purchasing a manuscript written by appointee. This consideration was between appointee and three others in the United States at the time. [redacted] also mentioned that appointee had secured a Fulbright scholarship and had spent the year 1951-52 in Scotland.

He stated that following his marriage at Albuquerque, New Mexico it was evident that his individualism might cause a rupture in his marital relations. Appointee and his wife did not get along too well, he being one who desired to follow his creative writing and she being one who desired a home and association with others. [redacted] explained that appointee's wife accompanied him to Scotland but returned four or five months later and secured a divorce in Albuquerque. He stated it was purely incompatibility on both their parts.

Concerning appointee's loyalty [redacted] stated that he has no information reflecting adversely on his loyalty to the United States. He mentioned, however, that appointee was connected with an incident at the University of New Mexico while appointee was editor of "The Thunderbird". He described "The Thunderbird" as a literary publication of the students at the University of New Mexico. He referred to the incident concerning the alleged quotation of LOUISA MAE ALCOTT on the front of the publication. He stated that the only thing he could figure out concerning this was that appointee desired to get his name before the student body and he put the quotation there for that purpose only.

[redacted] He stated, however, that he believed appointee got more of a reaction out of the incident than he expected and did not seem to want to make any retraction. He stated that because of this he always figured that this momentary publicity had somewhat of an effect on appointee.

[redacted] advised that appointee connected himself with a world peace movement on the campus at the University of New Mexico during the spring of 1951. He stated it was very temporary and was started by a representative of an organization known as the "Fellowship of Reconciliation." This representative came from Los Angeles, California and associated himself with individuals on the faculty and students who consider themselves pacifists and who are against war in any form. He described appointee as being one of those individuals who is against war although he served during the last world war. He stated the organization was formed or was in its formative stage during the end of the school year of 1951 and he did not believe that it went further at that time. He believes appointee was interested in that organization because of his deep feeling against war in any form.

X

In conclusion [redacted] stated again that he did not consider any of the information which he had furnished as reflecting adversely on appointee's loyalty to the United States. He stated he was such an individualist that if he felt a particular way he would be the first individual to be on a soap box in the middle of town expressing his feelings in that respect. He stated that while appointee was on the campus he was not associated in anyway with other students whom [redacted] thought were members of the Communist Party. He stated appointee was just an individualist who had his own way of doing things which happened not to be the way the average person would do it.

[redacted]

He stated appointee was a definite individualist who had great ability in the creative writing field. He pointed out that he received a Fulbright scholarship and went to Scotland during the year 1951-52. He also pointed out that appointee had written a story which if finished would be worthy of publication.

[redacted]

[redacted] stated that appointee was indiscreet in his individualism in regard to the incident concerning the campus literary publication "The Thunderbird." [redacted] stated that he was not concerned over this incident particularly because it fit right into what a young promising literary individualist might do in campus activities.

He stated that the novel appointee wrote was the story of one man who tries to live several lives and consequently fails to achieve any genuine kind of life at all. He stated the theme as expressed by appointee is deceptive and betrayal and fraud with variations. The end is an ironic and melodramatic death for the hero in the wilderness maze symbolic of the futile, confused, contradictory, barren waste he has made of his own life.

[redacted] stated that these are appointee's words as regards the theme and the end of his novel. He described the main character of the novel as extremely repulsive. He stated, however, that he did not feel that the novel was any reflection of appointee's feelings in one manner or another.

[redacted] advised that it has come to his attention that appointee and his wife had separated since they went to Scotland in 1951. He informed that he did not know of any reason for this.

[redacted] advised that he has no information that reflects adversely on the loyalty of appointee to the United States. He stated that he is an individualist which many people will not understand but he has no information that would indicate disloyalty in any manner.

X

[REDACTED] advised that he was acquainted with appointee as a student during the time appointee was at the University of New Mexico. He advised that he was not personally acquainted with appointee and knew him only as a student. He stated no information had come to his attention that would reflect adversely on his loyalty to the United States.

[REDACTED] advised that he was acquainted with appointee. He knew him as a student at the University of New Mexico [REDACTED]

He informed that he knew of no information which would reflect adversely on his loyalty to the United States.

[REDACTED] advised that he was acquainted with appointee who was a student at the University of New Mexico in 1950-51. [REDACTED]

[REDACTED] This group started in March 1951 when a Reverend GLENN E. SMILEY of Los Angeles, California came to the campus of the University of New Mexico as a representative of an organization known as the "Fellowship of Reconciliation." He stated this organization was a pacifist organization and did not believe in war. [REDACTED]

[REDACTED] stated that appointee was interested in the same principles and described him as a pacifist. He stated the organization had a few informal meetings toward the end of the school year and no active organization was formed. He stated that none of the individuals on the campus of the University of New Mexico who were generally associated with Communism were associated with this organization. He stated that at least he knew of no such individuals.

[REDACTED] mentioned the incident in connection with the publication of the March 1951 issue of "The Thunderbird" at the University of New Mexico. He described this incident as one of those things that a young creative writer on a university campus might do at any school. He stated that as far as he knew appointee had no ulterior motive behind the incident whatsoever. He informed that he had no information that would reflect adversely on his loyalty to the United States.

[REDACTED]

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

January 13, 1953

The American Consulate, Edinburgh, Scotland, by OK dated November 24, 1952, advised that subject registered informally at the Consulate on October 10, 1951 and gave his residence in Edinburgh as 7 Harrender Park Crescent. Attached as Exhibit A is the full report of the Consulate.

Examination of subject's file with the United States Educational Commission in the United Kingdom revealed that subject received maintenance allowance of $53 per month which began September 1951 and continued to May 15, 1952. Miss Marion Powell, Assistant Secretary, USEC/UK, visited Edinburgh in February 1952 at which time she talked to Mr. Abbey and Professor Kermick. She reported that subject was happy at Edinburgh University, that he appreciated the freedom and scholarly atmosphere so much so that he was inclined to seek a Ph.D. at Yale University on his return; that he liked the supervision at Edinburgh which gave him sufficient guidance but left him free to follow his own inclinations, that he appeared to have many friends and took part in a number of university activities including fencing; was a serious and conscientious worker although not a brilliant student. Miss Powell saw Professor Kermick who she understood was subject's supervisor but it turned out the professor was not actually tutoring Mr. Abbey and knew little of his work. She was disappointed that she could not speak to anyone who had actual contact with subject.

There is no record of the subject in the files of the Post Security Office. By memorandum the Post Security Office was advised as follows: December 31, 1952, Central Files and Archives, no record; January 2, 1953, Office of the Legal Attache, a copy of F.B.I. letter dated September 19, 1952 addressed to Mr. Boykin requesting investigation in Scotland (copy of which the Post Security Office received with the Department's request for investigation); January 6, 1953, Passport Section advised they had no record of subject's date or place of birth; Passport No. 479010 issued August 22, 1951, at Washington; March 21, 1952, issued grey card at American Embassy, London for travel to Vienna, to expire April 21, 1952.

November 24, 1952

SECURITY: ~~CONFIDENTIAL~~
 TO: AMEMBASSY, LONDON
 FROM: AMCONSULATE, EDINBURGH
 REF: Mr. Bailey's letter dated October 20, 1952
 SUBJECT: SECURITY: Case of Edward Paul ABBEY

Mr. Abbey registered informally at this Consulate on October 10, 1951 and gave his residence in Edinburgh as 7 Warrander Park Crescent. His wife came to Scotland with him but returned to the United States in December 1951.

Mr. Abbey was a Fulbright student at Edinburgh University in the field of moral philosophy. In addition, he took courses in metaphysics and English. The lecturers in moral philosophy and metaphysics remember him being in their classes but he was not a very active student and they formed no particular impressions about him at all. We have not been able to find the person who taught his class in English. The secretary of the Arts Department of the University has made extensive inquiries to find some faculty member who knew Abbey or who was in any way acquainted with him, but apparently he was not well known to anyone at the University.

Several American students lived in the vicinity of Warrander Park Crescent when Abbey was there, but none of these had ever heard of him. Since Fulbright students come here for one year at a time, the other Fulbright students who were with Abbey have also returned to the United States.

On November 16th, Vice Consul Tarter visited [REDACTED]

[REDACTED] b7D }
 [REDACTED] appeared to be quite well acquainted with Abbey [REDACTED]

[REDACTED] She seemed to be an intelligent and sincere person who was very willing to tell all that she knew. She said Abbey was writing a book while he was in Edinburgh which took a considerable portion of his time. He had several friends here, all American, but he did not see them very often and she did not know their names. He was not very concerned about social relations or about his work at the University, but seemed preoccupied with his own line of studies and with writing his book. [REDACTED] felt that Abbey's character and integrity were very high indeed. When he wished to, he could settle down to hard and steady work. She found him rather opinionated, self-centered, and liable to hold strong prejudices. When asked what sort of prejudices, [REDACTED] mentioned an occasion when Abbey attended a full-dress dinner party and returned somewhat dismayed with the formality of the affair. Thereafter, he seemed to avoid social functions and was strongly critical of this element of formality in Scotland. Mrs. Abbey disliked living here and for this reason she returned to the United States about Christmas 1951. Although he did not have much money, Abbey made three trips to the Continent during his stay in Edinburgh, travelling as cheaply as possible. He visited Spain, Austria and Scandinavia on these trips [redacted]

[redacted] did not say anything about the Vienna conference mentioned in the letter under reference, but was not asked about it by Mr. Tartter.

Mr. Abbey did not discuss politics very much, but [redacted] did not receive the impression that he had any radical views whatsoever. She said his outlook was always very pro-American.

observations and comments concerning the appointee. These comments are set forth below:

"I don't know anything about his Penn State education and I don't really know what he studied or what activities he participated in but I heard him telling about this incident of attempting to get people to burn their draft cards. That was simply an overt expression of his being against peace-time conscription. He is against peace-time conscription, I know. He is not against war-time conscription. He, of course, along "with the greater majority of the rest of us, prefers not to have any conscription whatsoever when we have no necessity for it. He would defend his country and that action at Penn State through the burning of the draft cards ----- I don't think it actually materialized, but I feel that was probably one of his wild notions, as he has had in the past, such as this publication 'The Thunderbird' where he says 'men will never be free until the last king is strangled with the entrails of the last priest' and attributing that to LOUISA MAY ALCOTT. I think this article was written by VOLTAIRE. That quotation was taken from the area around the French Revolution or rather the Protestant Revolution, when Protestantism was being formed as a branch of the Catholic Church. Of course the French Revolution was tied in with that as well as the Social Revolution.

"He applied for a scholarship while he was in his Senior year at Penn University. That was the Fulbright Scholarship which was given to him on the recommendation of I believe Dr. C. B. WICKER. He went to Scotland to study philosophy in Edinburgh. During the time that he was there he made extensive travels over Europe.

b7C

[REDACTED]

I think this is quite a long and involved philosophical term that he attaches to his beliefs and ideas. A liberal Democrat would be a simpler way to put it, and yet we do have these contradictions coming back. A complete cross to what he would purport in one moment. I think there is no question as to his loyalty to this country. I think there is no question of his being involved with any subversive organizations. He never made any effort to contact such an organization as far as I know. I know of no mention, and I know I would of such an organization, if such existed.

I know of no organizations that have tried to contact him. Probably the closest to it, if this little movement up here at the University wasn't Communist inspired, this Pacifistic meeting that took place during his last year at the University, I believe it is 1951, during that time that could have been a Communist inspired or Communist promulgated meeting, but it was simply directed against war, etc.

b7C

"think probably a good many of us could be misled by an organization like that. I know in looking through lists of organizations, there probably have been times that they have come around to your door saying I am with the Americans for the freedom of the Czechs or the Americans for the freedom of this, that or the other and asked for contributions. That was probably the closest he has ever come to being associated with a Communist backed organization.

"I am making these observations simply to prevent ABBEY from being wrongfully maligned. I think that a good many of his statements were simply made in the heat of argument and discussion. He is writing a book that is to be published by DODD and MEAD and he is writing that in his spare time. If the Security Commission goes ahead with the investigation it might possibly be that he would be dismissed from his job here and I know that is his only means of support. I think he probably works three days a week at the Quality of Water Department. The boy would be rather hard pressed to find another job where he could work enough to put himself through this period of writing. He has signed a contract with DODD and MEAD and right now it is rather vital to him that he has some peace of mind in order to continue his writing of this novel. The name of the novel is JONATHAN TROY."
